Overview

There has been an increase in demand from major organisations, employers, clients and the Government that individuals working in the construction industry can provide proof of Health and Safety competency. The aim of the CSCS scheme helps the construction industry increase quality and decrease accidents. The Construction Skills Certification Scheme (CSCS) card is the easy way to prove that individuals are competent in their occupation and have Health and Safety awareness .

Training

Training can also be organised in conjunction with assessment if required, tests are subject to individual status. These sessions are based on demand and are run accordingly. Test application can occur at any time. Company requirements regarding working patterns can also be accommodated upon request and sufficient numbers.

Help with your CSCS application

Connaught Academy can also assist individuals and companies post test completion with scheme card applications if required to do so.
